ALL KINDS

There are all kinds. Many of the old-timers bring newspapers, letters of congratulation, short stories for longer

readings, comic-magazines for light-reading, which is a half hour. They operate much as subway readers.

They fold the papers as to take up little room as possible.

Reading letters and newspapers is the best way to get to know the comic sheet in his newspaper.

Of course there are the "angle-players", it's sort of fun to watch them operate, especially, as Main Street and the police notice them very much. Those standing in line because their success is largely a matter of timing.

Just as the line starts to move,

the "buckers" appear from no where, crowding toward the door, talking with the "su-kers" in the line just as

"su-kers" in the line just as though they'd been in there waiting for the last half hour or hour.

The mark of an expert "bucker" is the mob will turn with a crack stamping ground for them.

They firmly believe to wait in line is the best way to succeed.

They pride themselves on their ability to "buck" a line.

There are other experts. Like the boy who will be in there pushing to his heart's content as the line surges forward, you will be the first to lift his head and low as in a voice heard around the post:

"Willya quit that pushin' back there?"

Then, too, you have the boy who is a fast master at working in close quarters, such as theater lobbies, where you are packed in so close the mob moves as one man when you breathe. The expert there is the soldier who can run circles around you, invariably breeds a "wise-cracker" who more times than one is just the guy who finds out he's been "red-lined" after waiting an hour or two in

BY CHAPLAIN ARCHIE D.
CLARK, JR.
28th Infantry

When the T.O. lists three chaplains as attached to an infantry regiment, it is not an adjunct or afterthought but a full realization that there is a definite field of labor for the chaplain that no other officer or service will fill.

Closely associated with but not duplicating the work of the chaplain is the work of the Special Services Officer and Hostess. Their work is recreational and social.

Being a believer in the old adage that an idle mind is the Devil's workshop and an empty life is the Devil's warehouse, it is the desire of every alert chaplain to support and encourage those serving in the field to employ the mind of the fighting man wholesomely and fill his life with the worthwhile things—those things that add to character and pave the way to virtuous living. There are times when these services are not available and the chaplain must be the man of the hour. In such cases, the one that gets to a life first usually wins; and the race is between God, represented by the chaplains, and the Devil, represented by all evil forces and interests. It is a continuous warfare and time off for idleness.

The chaplain is the minister to the individual man with his needs of personal interests, counseling and advice. The soldier seeks his help from one who can speak, act and feel as man to man. The chaplain must be able to advise with the sympathy and understanding of a father; to comfort and nurture with the love of a mother; and to confide in friend and companion.

Almost every soldier has relatives and many have families of their own. The soldier often has problems with which he is unable to cope; and the chaplain is called in to assist. One of our foreign-born soldiers is a wife and children in an allied country. His business partner is being induced into service. A seventeen year old brother is left in charge of the business. Can he get a dependency discharge to care for his family and business? A wife leaves her husband and has married a second wife. Will the chaplain assist? A soldier in the guardhouse wants to send his mother $10 for Mother's Day. A sergeant loses his furniture and personal effects in a fire. A mother wants a picture of the son that she has lost. Her child, a soldier, is coming to Benning to live. Could the chaplain find an officer's wife that needs a housekeeper? A dependent mother needs help from a soldier so that doesn't care. And so on.

Very often a chaplain is often challenged to meet the welfare needs of soldiers. The reward is the satisfaction of knowing a service has been rendered.

The chaplain at work finds his greatest opportunity ministering to the inner man; that is his military "raison d'être." He ministers to the man's religious needs, regardless of the man's faith, Catholic, Protestant, or Jewish. These services, among hundreds of others, include sermons, masses, Bible lessons, prayer meetings, baptisms, last rites, holy communion, and confessions.

Capt. Taylor Made Major

A veteran paratrooper, Capt. Alton R. Taylor, has been promoted to major, according to an announcement received at post headquarters.

Major Taylor, who is now secretary of the Academic Section of the Parachute School, became a jumping infantryman, way back in December 1940.

Since that time he has served as platoon leader with the 501st, and more recently as instructor in charge of jump training with the Parachute School.

Major Taylor is a former resident of Greenwood, Miss., and a graduate of Clemson College, Clemson, S.C.

124TH INFANTRY

Although the basketball for the Gators doesn't officially begin until Nov. 2, the newly opened hoop court in the Recreation Hall was given a stiff workout by the impatient members of the 124th Infantry Company. Obviously, the various company teams have become tired of the long trek to the Harmony Church Sports Arena for their pre-season workouts ... Once the regular schedule gets started, the teams will be divided into two leagues—the Georgia and Florida—with ten teams in each league ... Those sports feuds between "F" and "G" Companies will culminate in a touch-tackle skirmish between the two units at Chapel Field sometime next week.

Pvt. Kirshner (Co. A) tells us that he knows a soldier who is so noisy that he can't sleep at night. Asked if he ever told his enveloper, he always writes "GRATIS".

Sgt. Sy Saffer, the Romeo from Cannon Company, was bragging about his way with women. When asked if he had a girl friend, he said he had one.

Power of Prayer

The telephone rings. It is the Sergeant at the Receiving Office calling the Medical Officer of the Day. "Sir! A soldier has just been brought in. There was an awful wretch. It is an emergency. Come quickly! Please."

As quickly as he can, the O.D. is on his way to minister to this patient that is wounded, bleeding and perhaps dying. We know that if it is humanly possible, he will save his life.

It is past mid-night. Another telephone rings. This time it is the O.D. calling the Chaplain. "Chaplain, this is the O.D. There has been an accident, and I am afraid the boy can't live long. Will you come to the Receiving Office as quickly as you can? The boy needs your help badly. I have done all I can possibly do for him." "Yes," said the Chaplain, "I will be there in a few minutes."

Soon the Chaplain enters the Receiving Office and without taking up any more time than is necessary to find out who the boy is, where he is from, and his organization, he goes to the side of the boy. The boy quickly recognizes the Chaplain and says: "Chaplain, I need you. The O.D. says I can't live long in the condition I am in. I want you to pray for me because I am lost, and I am not ready to die now. I don't want to be lost! Pray for me! If mother knew this, she would be praying for me."

And in the stillness and quietness of the night, we see the Chaplain kneel by the boy's side and hear him ask in the most humble way and with all sincerity that God will save this boy's precious soul.

Listen! I hear another voice, and we have to move inside the Dressing Room at the Receiving Office in order to hear the words. It is the boy that is lying on the table. His voice is weak, let's move a little closer and listen. "Lord Jesus, I don't know how to pray. I have never had to pray before but they tell me that I am not going to live long. If I die now, I will be lost. I don't want to be lost! And God! I remember mother reading from her Bible that if we ask in Jesus' Name it will be granted, so I am asking in Jesus' Name that You forgive me of all my sins; the things I didn't do as well as the things I have done. Save me, Lord Jesus! I remember the Preacher back home saying that when we confess our sins and take Christ as our Personal Savior, we would be saved. So Jesus, I am taking you as my Savior at best I know how, because I have already confessed all my sins. I have done all I know to do. Won't you save me now?"

After this prayer the boy fell asleep. Yet unconsciousness. "Perhaps an emergency operation would save his life", say the Chaplain to the O.D. The O.D. looks at the boy and says, "It's certainly worth trying. Come with me!"

The O.D. quickly makes his way to a telephone. Soon he is talking with the Post Surgeon and telling him of the accident and the critical condition of the boy. And when the O.D. has finished, the Surgeon tells the O.D. to call some of his assistants, some extra nurses and the needed amount of orderlies in order to more quickly prepare for an emergency operation, stating that he will come to the Hospital immediately.

Upon arriving at the Hospital, the Surgeon finds the best assistant surgeons preparing themselves for the operation soon to follow. A few extra nurses are doing their duty along with the orderlies. They have heard that the boy's life probably depends upon their speed and accuracy. Each one is anxious to get their assignments completed so the boy can get the necessary attention as quickly as possible.

Soon the Surgeon comes into the Operating Room. "Everything ready?" he asks the O.D. "Yes Sir!", is the O.D.'s reply. The boy is brought in and placed on the operating table. He at this time gains consciousness. He looks around and asks, "Where am I and what are you going to do?" The Surgeon takes the boy by the hand and says, "Son! In your case we are not sure that we can save your life, but all of us are going to do our best. But we may fail, it could be too late, and we want you to know this before we operate!"

The boy looks around the Operating Room that was a scene such as he has never seen before. There are assistant surgeons and the best nurses ready to lend their hand in an operation like this. The orderlies are standing along the side of the Operating Room, for they have just finished their assignments, but have not been told to leave. The boy smiles weakly and says, "Sir! I appreciate all your efforts, and let me say that if I don't survive the operation, I don't dread to go now. When I was brought into the Receiving Office and while in the Dressing Room, I was scared nearly to death because I was not ready to die. I would have been lost, eternally. But—turning to the Chaplain, who was dressed to observe the operation—it's alright now. Since the Chaplain prayed for me and since I did all I knew to do in order to be saved, it's alright now. I am ready to either live or die!"

There is a minute of hesitancy. Each one exchanges glances, just as to say as we hear today, "I don't get it". Then the Surgeon looks at the anesthetist and says, "Alright! What are we waiting for?" Then all except necessary personnel and the Chaplain are asked to leave the Operating Room.

The boy's weakness seems to aid the anesthetist in getting him asleep. The operation is begun and every one is giving his best in aiding the Surgeon and his assistants. After a minute or two, the boy's breath becomes very short and weak. The Surgeon looks at his assistants, and each exchange knowing glances. The anesthetist looks over at the Chaplain who stands with bowed head at this moment. Not a word is said for a second or two, then the Chaplain says, "I'm bailing out!" chorused the air corps soldier as he saw his bondsman approaching the house.

GENERAL SITUATION

I should have been a general

Then I could wear important looks;

And have an office cluttered up

With army training books;

For I could, as a general,

Raise lots of hell, no doubt,

And it would be a lot of fun

To bawl some soldier out.

Mess Sgt.: "I don't think I made a mistake when I bought this liver for twenty cents a pound, do you?"

Cheow Hound: "No—But when you put it on the table, that will be your mistake."

The government: "There's a shortage of rubber in this country, which seems to offer an ideal opportunity for the army hotcake to come into its own."

"I ain't no fortune teller" the top kick confided in private extra but "I'll bet I can tell you what you will be doing next Sunday."

Wine and women,

And a few notes of sing-

Is the eternal triangle

That makes soldiers go wrong."

Famous Farewells

"Pardon me, Sir, I didn't mean to call the general a lieutenant."

ODA on O. D. Shirts

I wonder why my O. D. shirts

Have tails that reach my knees;

I wonder why the neck bands

shrink;

And why such damn short sleeves."

Inspecting Officer: "Is that your cigarette butt on the floor?"

Rookie: "Nah, go ahead and get it, you saw it first."

I'll beat the bozo who once said

"there's dignity in labor" never went out on an army-fatigue detail.

BY EVE

It's hard to tell what sparked one tired of crowded places. And the new merchandise!

It has a definitely holiday air.

All the lovely boxed toiletries, beautiful underwear and tricky gift items.

The drug counter is impressive enough to compare favorably with any modern drug store.

Magazines and stationery have their space as have the special departments for sporting goods, uniform equipment and luggage.

I can think of no addition to improve the Post Exchange, which unquestionably will bid for number one in outstanding Post Exchanges in our army, unless it would be a floor walker in a frock coat and a carnation in his button hole. That would be the crowning touch, but perhaps too unnerving to those who have done their shopping in the army in strange and fearful marts of trade.

AMERICA

"America, I cannot say, My coun-

I love thee, so I can but pray God

keep thee brave and strong;

"America, unshackled, free;

within a fettered world,

May wisdom guard thy liberty and keep our flag unfurled;

"America, my country fair, those words engrossed in

They were our founding fathers'

prayer that faith might save this land.

America, in God we trust! Far-flying democracy

May thine be e'er a peace most

just, a peace with charity;

America, thou blessed sod; thin-

I only ask, be true to God,

I'll be true to thee!

USO Presents

When the USO Club at Blackstone, Va., opened on Sept. 25, it was numbered "USO Unit No. 1000".

On Oct. 1, there were 1014 USO Clubs and units stretching from coast to coast, and into many of the Western Hemisphere bases of the United States armed forces . . . Total of 1014 operations—607 of which are clubs—is nearly three times the number projected when USO was first organized . . . Over 500 of these operations have been initiated since Pearl Harbor.

Skating still continues to be one of the main attractions at the USO-Army and Navy YMCA . . . And now another day has been added to the skating schedule . . . From now on the patio will be open on Sunday afternoons for those who wish to glide about on the silver wheels.

Monday and Wednesday evenings are still the nights to be at the "Y" if you skate . . . Classes are being held both nights at ten o'clock for those who want to learn to dance and cut fancy figures.

It seems that the Columbus USOs are finally getting some recognition . . . This is a little article I dug out of the NCCS Bulletin of Oct. 1 . . . "The Columbus Ga. Symphony, which holds rehearsals in the club directed by Eugene Bergmann, has, with NCCS President J. Morris, a representative of the League of Women Voters and P. R. M. Sherod will present briefly the outline for discussion . . . Cpl. Jules Siegel will act as moderator.

Seeing Mr. Bergmann's name in print reminds me that we all owe him a vote of thanks for the fine job he has done in arranging the free tickets for all the activities that the Three Arts League has scheduled for the season . . . He is responsible for the show that was given at his club on Ninth street last week . . . "Red, White and Khaki" was swell and Wednesday Frank Buck held his show there . . . Thanks for the free tickets for the boys and keep up the good work.

You know what's the Right Way?" "Soon, you'll be back at home, we hope," and how happy we all will be! Around the fire-side at the close of day. With our Bible read; we'll bow our knee." "We'll thank God that we're Americans," "As our flag so proudly flies Over our homes and our loved ones. Where Freedom, Liberty, and Justice lie."

Next Sunday's band concert at the SA-USA in Phenix City will feature vocalist Pvt. Howard Hank, formerly of the Chicago Conservatory of Music, and Pvt. Howard Willmott, who will act as accompanist. He was a teacher of music in the Chicago public schools . . . "Ah, country sausage and eggs, coffee and toast, with plenty of butter and jam . . . Such is the type of meal served at the same club every Sunday morning . . . Mrs. J. D. Dykes of the Red Cross and a group of helpers cook and serve the boys of the Breakfast Club . . . Pretty soon the different clubs will be serving your breakfast in bed and with the morning paper . . . No, nothing has been said about it, but by gosh, if each club tries to improve on the other as has been done in the past, this dream will soon be a reality . . . A special Hallowe'en party will be held at this same club . . . Watch this column for further developments.

Here is a past and future paragraph from the Ninth Street USAO Club . . . In the past, meaning this last Monday, another Cabaret night was held and as usual there were gags. And always pay the price.

NEW PURSUIT: Fighter Command headquarters in an eastern city recently began to wonder whether they had missed, up on a new development in aviation. What caused the excitement was a call from a worried feminine aircraft spotter who reported "something that looked like a couple of planes with their arms wrapped around one another" flying suspiciously overhead. It turned out to be a P-38—Mitchell Beacon.

Peeks at Pics

BY GREGORY S. KRANES

For the first time in his life Charlie McCarthy is glad he is a dummy, for only a boy of wood could play Charlie's starring role in RKO Radio's "Here We Go Again," second top comedy film headed by Charlie, Edgar Bergen, and Fibber McGee and Molly . . . The scene which would bar a flesh and blood boy from the part is the one between Charlie and an eight-year-old Canadian black bear . . . In this sequence, Charlie has to welcome the bear into bed under the impression that it is Bergen . . . He has to snuggle down close to the animal and laugh and chuckle when the bear prowls around the tent, knocking over everything in the way . . . It required several days to film this particular scene and Pal the bear, was not always in a good mood . . . Several times he clawed and bit Charlie and once knocked him out of bed with his paw . . . But being made of wood, despite his seeming humanism, Charlie was able to take it, with only a few minor scratches to show for his encounters . . . However, the "Here We Go Again" company was treated to thrills and spills during the sequences, because Bergen screamed and pawed for Charlie for the off-the-record actions and made it seem realistic that for a moment many of the players forgot that Charlie was not a real, living boy.

Red Skelton's no tightwad when it comes to gags . . . Gives 'em away . . . The latest one being told about him is the one where he arrived one morning at the studio and told the crew that he had a dream about Hedy Lamarr . . . "I couldn't catch her," he said, "As fast as I ran, she ran faster!" . . . After keeping the gang with their tongues hanging out, waiting for the punch line, he finished . . . "Tonight I'm putting my scooter like right beside my bed."

ADD ODD FACTS DEPARTURE . . . Jane Randolph, the girl about whom RKO Radio is making so much of a fuss these days, was named after Randolph Field . . . She chose the label herself when for picture use she changed her name from Roemer . . . Reason because she's so crazy about flying . . . Taught to fly by her air-minded father an industrial engineer, the actress didn't have an opportunity to earn her pilot license until just a short time ago, when small private aviators of the Pacific Coast are very grounded . . . Jane Randolph is now starring in "Highways By Night," which has at a feature player Gordon Jones . . . A funny story is told by Jones on himself that should be passed on . . . A former UCLA football star, Jones always looks in the mirror before going into a film scene . . . Explaining the reason, he declared "Had a horrid experience in a college play once . . . Y'see, I was made up by the school make-up man. Was playing a Greek senator or something, so I had on a white feathered head and a curly hair . . . Just before I stepped out on stage the make-up man slipped me and gave some things to my make-up . . . When I popped out of the wings the audience began to hoot, yoo-hoo and so on . . . I ran back and looked at myself in the mirror . . . That guy had pointed the cutest little cupid's bow on my eye ever saw!" . . . Jones is six feet one and weighs 190 pounds.

WHEN JOHN CARROLL, now starring in "Flying Tigers," currently playing at the Georgia Theatre, Deno Red Cross, started an expedition equipped to reach victims in mountain disasters, he visited his bank account, bought a big Packard and had it converted into a canvas-topped truck . . . Complete with two-way radio, specially designed operating table and necessary instruments, and a water tank for use in case the truck were to be stranded, the outfit cost Mr. Carroll a neat seven thousand dollars . . . He genuinely wanted no publicity about the transaction—but that kind of secret should be shared.

Another little story to come out of Hollywood about the filming of "Here We Go Again" is the one about Charlie McCarthy and his old dance . . . For the first time, Charlie does a dance with a boy-cutie and Mr. Bergen isn't there to help him . . . The script calls for Charlie to join in an Iroquois Indian dance . . . With the ingenious aid of famous dance director Nick Castle and Bergen, the difficult scene was shot . . . At its conclusion wise-cracking McCarthy quipped to Bergen . . . "That's all brother. I won't be needing you any more."

HEARD ON THE LOT . . . of "Cairo," starring Jeanette McDonald, Robert Young, Ethel Waters, Mona Barré, Reginald Owen, Lionel Atwill and Edward G. Robinson . . . Barré runs wild on any picture directed by Maj. W. S. Van Dyke II, and Ethel Waters, colored songstress proved she was sharp off-screen as well as on. Proud of his reputation for being the fastest director in the business, Van Dyke was telling her how he would . . . "You're probably at least an hour behind me," he explained. "That means you will have to get here an hour earlier to get into your costume." "My, my!" she exclaimed. "I don't know if I'll be able to get up that early!" "It's the best way," assured Van Dyke. "We start early, work fast and get through early." "Maybe so," cracked the irrepressible Waters. "but you know I only got one speed. And that's slow,"

Mary Martin

'Bayonet Girl' Makes Special Photo for Us

Remember the "Bayonet Girl"? As if you could forget that lovely, luscious Hollywood film star who so cheerfully accepted the title bestowed upon her when the "New York Times of Army Newspapers" made its debut a few short weeks ago?

You'll no doubt, recall that super-titillating pose of Mary Martin on the front page of the second issue of the Bayonet. Well, now gaze upwards and you'll see the latest pose that Mary has struck, this time especially for the Bayonet and honoring the Bayonet.

Paramount Studios are so excited about the Bayonet's selection as Bayonet Girl that they are even more than ever intent on maintaining it on all of which won't hurt the Bayonet or Benning.

The lovely film star was so delighted with the Bayonet's lay-out and story that she immediately posed for a special picture the result of which you see above. The shot was taken yesterday on the set of Mary's newest film entitled "True to Life" in which she will co-star with Victor Moore and Franchot Tone. And judging by the picture we'd say it was pretty true to life for "Bayonet Girl"! After all there's the overseas cap, the Springfield, and the bayonet. Naturally, you're not supposed to notice those beautiful gams, but they look mighty fetching too, just in case you're interested.

AH, WILDERNESS! At any rate, we of the Bayonet adore Mary Martin. She has

more than ever intent on maintaining it on all of which won't hurt the Bayonet or Benning.

The lovely film star was so delighted with the Bayonet's lay-out and story that she immediately posed for a special picture the result of which you see above. The shot was taken yesterday on the set of Mary's newest film entitled "True to Life" in which she will co-star with Victor Moore and Franchot Tone. And judging by the picture we'd say it was pretty true to life for "Bayonet Girl"! After all there's the overseas cap, the Springfield, and the bayonet. Naturally, you're not supposed to notice those beautiful gams, but they look mighty fetching too, just in case you're interested.

AH, WILDERNESS! At any rate, we of the Bayonet adore Mary Martin. She has

surely justified our choice of her as sponsor of the paper. In her last letter, she said to be sure and throw a kiss to all the lads at Benning for her.

Paramount Studios are so excited about the Bayonet's selection as Bayonet Girl that they are even more than ever intent on maintaining it on all of which won't hurt the Bayonet or Benning.

BY SGT. CARL NEU

The 28th Infantry eleven that rolled over the 55th Engineers in Doughboy Stadium on Sunday was just about as well-coached a grid machine as has performed on the stadium turf in a long time. The Big Blue this year is not long on outstanding material, but Coaches Joe Ashmore and Archie Mijano have welded together a ball club that seems destined for an unusually successful campaign.

With three victories already in the sack, the Two-Niners face their remaining six tilts with a chance to win everyone of them. Certainly, if they play as they did Sunday they will win most. The line play of the 28th was particularly outstanding. That compact forward wall charged the Engineer linemen off their feet, and opened up enormous holes time and again. With backs like Bryan and Hurley to carry through those holes, the Blues are always dangerous.

The 28th line, which has been tutored by Milano, has not changed materially since the opening game. Giraulo and Cornelius, alternately at center, appear equally proficient. Little Frank Mastranuzio, weighing only 140 pounds but hard as nails, is a great guard. Plakas or Saczewitz are good running mates for the mighty little man.

Seidom has this corner seen a better pair of tackles than Mike Hutchens and Hank Zawaski. Totaling 435 pounds of beef on the hoof, they are in the midst of every play. Joe Stolarzyk has developed into a valuable left end, and veteran Jim Hennessey at the right flank is one of the team's mainstays, just as great defensively as he is when snaring touchdown passes.

Backs are important in winning grid games, too, and the 29th has a snappy set even with two of the best, Ashmore and Bowen, sidelined with injuries. But as Joe Bryan, the burly fullback, said after Sunday's game "It's a pleasure to run behind such a wonderful line." And Joe should know, because he gave his greatest exhibition for the Blues against the Engineers. He was a whirling dervish on the spinners, a most effective weapon, and picked up many a yard careening through the gaping holes opened ahead of him.

So for this season, we've tried to refrain from handing out too many bouquets to any of the teams, but this 28th crew deserves a few for their showing Sunday. They played hard, blocked well and looked like a well-knit crew that realized the advantages of teamwork and used it also as a weapon against the opposition. They are a good group of pigskinners and a credit to their coaches as well as their regiment.

The sky-jumpers of the 505th Parachutes have stolen the jums or everybody else in fort boxing circles and already started their regimental pugilistic program. Under the very capable direction of Major Patrick D. Mulphy, athletic officer, the paratroopers held their third show in two weeks in their command area over Alabama way last night. Aim of the twice-weekly shows is to weed out the real champions in the regiment, and get them lined up for future post-wide competition.

Already, the 505th has uncovered two colorful performers in Sailor Joe Robinson and Tom Lewandowski. The sailor lad had the crowd literally rolling in the aisles with his comedy antics in one of the bouts last week, and still came off the victor. They call Lewandowski the "baby tank" and the former professional wrestler is a great showman, even when he's getting beaten as he was last week by Irving Jones, who has won 27 of 30 fights by a K. O. The paratroopers work hard and train hard, and they also fight hard, which means plenty of excitement for the on-lookers.

Plans will be announced before the week is out, and by this time next week, the All-Star team that is to represent Benning against the Pensacola Naval Air Station eleven next month should be working out. The Goslings, boasting many great college stars of former years, don't have too successful a record on the books, but the team that visits Doughboy Stadium will be a coker. Witness who has defeated the minnows of Potsy Clark, former pro coach of the Detroit Lions—Alabama and Georgia Naval. The Crimson Wave is still undefeated and looks as even a Rose Bowl choice. The Athens Cadets have toppled all college opposition, including Duke and Penn, two of the top elevens this side of the Mississippi.

This week, the Pensacolans entertain the Horned Frogs of Texas Christian and the following week they'll prep for their Benning visit by playing the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station. Any team playing a big-time card like that is bound to be tough, and Benning will have to muster all its forces if soldiers are to top sailors in the big Army-Navy game in Doughboy.

BAYONET TIPS—Watch Lieut. Henry Boudreux hang up some more bowling titles and records this year. The campaign's hardly begun, and already the popular M. P. chief has rolled a 469 game on the post alleys . . . Lieut. Claude Hackney, backfield coach of the 124th, was coached in high school at Live Oak, Fla., by Capt. Leo Gregory, head tutor of the 3rd Arm. [Their respective teams class Sunday as they renew acquaintances] . . . Tuskegee to beat Morehouse by two touchdowns in the big colored game downtown tomorrow night, and Columbus High to eke out a win over Opelika in the schoolboy tilt tonight. Both games are in Memorial Stadium . . . Academic Regiment of the I. S. S. C. will have another crackertick court team judging by some of the material already uncovered in regimental frays . . . 124th Infantry's Cesario and Spence Field's Antonucci, who were spearheads of their team's attacks in that night game at Moultrie last Saturday, were also former rivals in high school football circles around Youngstown, Ohio . . . Watch for a battle of super de luxe pass-snappers on Sunday when Junie Belin, ex-Auburn and now 124th, and George Jenkins, ex-L. S. U. and now 3rd Armored, line up on opposite sides of the ball . . . This corner likes the 28th to trip Troy State, the Gators by a whisker over the Dragons, the Tankers to stop the 55th in week-end attractions. But we could be wrong.

29th Plays Troy State Saturday Night; Two Conference Battles Are Listed

Plenty of Action In Stadium

There was plenty of action last Sunday in Doughboy Stadium when the 28th toppled the Engineers by a 25-0 count. Shown in the top picture is Jarrin' Joe Bryan, Big Blue fullback, rolling on the ground in the end zone just after he had crashed over for the fourth and final touchdown. Below is some of the half-time action as the pretty girl drum majorettes of the Central High band paraded across the field to serenade the opposite stands.

Bryan Shines As Blue Devils Smash 55th Engineers 25-0

29th Infantry Gridsters Register First Post Conference Win Sunday

More than 8,000 fans saw the 28th Infantry's undefeated grid warriors smash their way to a 25-0 triumph over the 55th Engineers in Doughboy Stadium Sunday afternoon.

The 29th's victorious team was paced by Jarrin' Joe Bryan, fullback driving fullback who drove over for two of the Big Blue team's four scores to give them their first win in the Fort Benning Conference. Bryan was also directly responsible for the victory.

All afternoon he plagued the courageous but out-manned Engineers.

grid as he drove off tackle and dented their line spinners. But he was backed up by a solid wall of veterans and as a smoothly-functioning team to overwhelm the Engineers.

CENTRAL BAND PLAYS

The game was marked by spirited support on both sides of the field by the Central High School band from Phenix City representing the losers. Between the halves, the music-makers paraded on the field and thrilled the huge gathering with their intricate formations and the majestic march of drum majorettes. The game was witnessed by Major General Leaven C. Allen, commanding the Infantry School; Brigadier General Walter S. Fullerton, post commander, and other military leaders.

The 29th started the aerial fireworks early in the game which were sustained throughout and continually befuddled the Engineers. Taillibet Ed Hurley did most of the passing and near the end of the first half he hooked a pass to Right End Jim Hennessey good for 21 yards, carrying the ball to the Engineers' 14-yard line. After failing to dent the opposition's line, the Devils took the air again with Hurley throwing to Left End Stolarzyk, a big left end, for a tally. Hutchins failed to convert.

SCORELESS SECOND PERIOD
In the second quarter neither team was able to score although the 28th kept the ball on the pay dirt. Bryan scored for a score which was called back after Reade Giraulo had recovered a blocked kick to give the Blues possession of the ball on the thirteen. The whistle caught the 29th three yards away from another potential score.

Big First Half Gives Breakers 14-0 Loop Win

117th Inf. Eleven Scores Twice Before Intermission To Topple Tankers

BY PVT. KEVE GRUNIN

Scoring all their points in a big first half, the 117th Infantry's speed-breaker eleven opened its Fort Benning Conference slate with a 14-0 victory over the 11th Armored Tankers in a tempo blitzkrieg field in the Sand Hill area Sunday afternoon.

The light but speedy infantrymen started fast and swept to a pair of touchdowns before Capt. Sved Carlson's five Tankers had posted a single score in the first two periods; however, it was a different story with the 11th armored holding an advantage in first downs, although they could not penetrate the breaker defense for a score.

SECOND VICTORY

The 117th victory made it two in a row for Lieut. John Cudmore's charges who will play another cousing game this Sunday before they oppose the powerful 28th Infantry next weekend in the tilt which the breakers have now positioned as second best. Spence Field's fast moving end was the "big noise" in the game as he broke through the strong tanker forward wall time after time to hurl back their ball handlers and prevent them from making any headway.

SCORE EARLY

Breakers got off to a good start in the first period. As the kick-off Smith took the ball and zig-zagged up the field until he was finally downed by the tankers 42-yard marker. The 117th on three consecutive plays scored the first field in the tankers 12-yard stripe. From there Spence Field took the ball from center, faded back, then heaved the pigskin to Brown in the end zone for the first score. In the second period, Cudmore's Smith and kicked for an extra point making the score 7-0 in favor of the doughboys.

The first half of the period saw the tankers fighting in the 117th infantry territory. Lead by Lt. Donalson, the tankers fought back in the 11 A. D. was on the way to turning up the score, but the strong offense of the 117th hurled the tankers back.

SMITH TACKLES

The 117th took the lead in the third part of the second period. Spence Field's flashy halfback of even proposition with the Fliers, staging one serious threat only to receive a pass to Smith for a total to be halled deep in Gator territory. The 124th also did not have two minutes remaining in the first half, Smith took the ball from his own end zone and inside the 20-yard line for another breaker touchdown. Roberts converted for the looked without a score at inter-extra point, making the score to 14-0.

The spectators witnessed a good example of football coupled with an intense enthusiasm and excitement in the third and fourth periods, but there was no score.

Screen Starlet Weds Army Colonel's Son at Benning

Groom Is Naval Officer But Army Does Knot Tying

Close cooperation between the Army and Navy is apparent in the American sea and land battles but even another illustration bobbed up last week-end at Fort Benning.

This time the Army and the Navy teamed up at a wedding in the Catholic chapel on the post proper. The navy was represented by Lt. William Denton, Jr., of Pensacola, Fla., who was Col. William Denton, Sr., son of the Station Hospital staff and his wife, Mrs. Denton both of Fort Benning, parents of Lieutenant Denton.

Marrying the Navy son of an Army man and the Army's most colorful post was lovely Rosemary Coleman of Washington and Hollywood, a former Powers model and a screen actress who finished a picture in Hollywood just before flying to Fort Benning for the marriage.

Maybe the Navy did score a

"beat" there but it took an army chaplain to tie the knot.

The bride met her husband at Annapolis while she was attending George Washington College in Washington, D. C. Prior to coming to Washington she had attended Immaculate Heart College in Hollywood, California. The bride and her mother-in-law, Mrs. William Denton, Sr., are sorority sisters in the Pi Beta Phi society.

Lieutenant Denton showed an interest in the sea during his days as an army pilot, a teetotaler, contractor, family historian which boasted a long line of physicians and surgeons on both parents' sides of the family. He attended Hendrix College in Conway, Ark., for two years prior to entering the naval academy and graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1939 and served on fleet duty until recently when he transferred to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida, for training.

DICKSON IS CAPTAIN

Lieutenant W. W. Dickson, Nashville, Georgia, stationed with the 1st Air Force at Lawson Field, has been promoted to the rank of Captain.

Lawson Field, established in 1932 is named in honor of the late Capt. Walter R. Lawson, a native Georgian and Air Corps hero of World War I.

A native of Nashville, Georgia, Captain Dickson attended the North Georgia College for several years and was commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant October 31, 1941.

Sunday Chapel Collection Given to Nursery School

Bridge Winners Also Donate Prize Money

BY LAURA M. BAILEY

Described to be known as one of the most successful undertakings at Fort Benning is the new Day Nursery and Nursery School which opened at 8:30 on Thursday October 15, at 106 Madden Avenue under the supervision of Mrs. Howard C. Fulton.

The acute need for a service of this kind has been known for some time. Changing conditions due to the acceleration of war demands and lack of servants available for the care of small children has made the formation of a school of this type a necessity.

While the primary force behind the organization was to be its direct contribution of freeing mothers for important Red Cross duties and other war work, another more important function has been evident since its opening date. It is providing a security and happiness through the morning hours for the children through the expert guidance of Mrs. Howard C. Fulton, the full time supervisor of the school.

The engaging charm of curly headed mops absorbed in the happy business of constructing a train out of orange crates for a trip to the movies, or in the enchanting sight of the behemoth sand boxes, wheel toys and clay moulded into the inevitable mud pie shape of childhood are happy activities interrupted by hand-washings and dippings of orange juice.

In the short while the school has been functioning a firm friendship has sprung up between the toddlers. One outraged could not understand why she could not go to school on Sunday. So fascinating were their occupations with each other, their mothers have a difficult time persuading them the school period is over at 11:30 a.m.

BACK BY FULTON

Mr. Reginald H. Kelley, president of the Woman's Club, found a quick response to her idea of forming a service of this kind for Fort Benning, when she presented the plans to General Walter Scott Fulton. He quickly directed the resources at his command for the early opening of the school.

The need for General Fulton's approval and assistance was great, for there were no funds available to start a project of this kind. While the school is to be self-supporting, the current expenses for supplies were being carried by Mrs. Kelley and Mrs. Grace L. Beall.

Immediate financial assistance was made available through Chaplain Frank M. Thompson in donating the collection from last year's Christmas service amounting to $80.24. The timeliness and generosity of this offer of Chaplain Thompson, coupled with the assistance and sponsorship of the school on a permanent basis.

Further evidence of the interest the school has aroused was evidenced by the Bridge Group donating the winnings of the small prizes offered by holders of the high scores.

CLARKE AIMS

Miss Mason held a meeting at the school last Monday for the volunteer workers and mothers.

Jones

of the children. The purpose of the meeting was to clarify the aims and principles of pre-school training for small children. She cited the common feeling of tension known in most families of the service today and the general feeling of insecurity felt by wives and mothers facing the fact they may soon be the sole moral support of their family. The Nursery School of today with its principles of applied psychology provides an emotional stability coupled with direct educational training. Children are taught physically how to use their bodies, socially how to get along with people, emotionally how to reason and handle materials. Never again in their lives will they learn as quickly as they do at the pre-school age.

Destined to become the alumni and first day students of the Fort Benning Day Nursery and Nursery School are the following children:

Billy Keach, Betsy Waldron, Fredy Miller, Dennis Booth, Ann Blanchard, Margaret Blanchard, Joe Lambeth, Phille Lambert, Barbara Haegelin, John Hardin, Billie Reynolds, Michael Elman, Eleanor Hardy, Susie Shattuck, Butch Russ, and Bobby

Weaver.

Dear Son,
..... My boy, I hope you're well.
I wish you'd write again.
The mailman did not stop today.
I waited long, in vain.

The mailman seems so glad to bring
The letters that you write.
I wonder, Son, Please could you spare
A portion of tonight?

I don't want much, a page or two,
A tiny card will even do.
But please, dear son, send home to me
A letter with your scribbled signature!

I know you plan to go to town
With all the other men.
But spare a minute, let me hear
The mailman's bell, again.

I told you we were feeling fine
He lets me know each day
The things that happen to my boy
While he is far away.

I know you love her very much
And I am glad, my son.
I'm happy that she loves you so,
That she's your "Only One".

Just sometime when you've written Sue
But want to write another
Please find it in your heart to write
To me.....

Your Loving Mother.

COL. KELLY SPEAKS

Col. Reginald Kelly, president of the reclassification board, will review basic causes for world conflict at the first meeting of the Current Events group of the Woman's Club Monday, October 26, at 2 p.m. in the ladies' lounge of the Officers' Club.

Col. Kelly, who has seen 40 years of commissioned service all over the United States and around the world, has a thorough understanding through observation, of countries both in Europe and in the Orient. Individuals who have involved the world in war today, he believes, are the ones who are most responsible. Col. Kelly feels that now he is able to use his own breathing muscles for as long as three and a half hours at a time. During the day he sleeps approximately six and one-half hours.

After tracing the causes and effects of war, Colonel Kelley will devote the rest of his lecture to outlining the progress of the war to date and to sketching the biggest strategic moves.

Fink Outlines Ballot Casting By Soldiers

Benning Boy Bags Bonds

Card Applications
Are Provided
To Simplify Process

Voting by absentee ballot by members of the armed forces has been made about as easy as signing the payroll according to an explanation of the procedure by Capt. George Fink, acting judge advocate at Fort Benning.

Absentee voting was tremendously simplified by an act of Congress last month setting up new methods of balloting for soldiers away from their home states.

Under the provisions of the act, anyone voting by mail will be given a copy of the Secretary of State of applicant's state through mailed postcards which are being distributed by the Army and Navy Department to the men in the ranks.

The applicant after he has sent his postcard probably through his company room will print the following form on one side of the postcard:

"Secretary of State:

"Being on active duty in the armed forces of the United States and desiring to vote in the coming election, I hereby apply for an official war ballot."

"My home address is (Number and Street) in the city town or (Name) in the State of (Name) and my voting district or precinct is (the best of my knowledge is District). I desire that the ballot be sent to me at the following address: (Address)."

The card will be signed by the applicant and signed, or certified by any commissioned officer.

On the other side of such post card the words "Free, Official War Ballot" will be printed so that it will be received by Nov. 1 date of the general election.

The various states will mail ballots to the soldiers from whom postcards have been received and the ballot will be mailed so that it will be received by Nov. 1 date of the general election.

Senate Okehs Base Pay Bill

Officers From Enlisted Ranks Benefitted

Reserve and National Guard officers at Fort Benning who were affected by a ruling by the Comptroller General that inactive commissioned service would not advance them in pay periods will learn with interest that all has been changed. Senate providing that all officers on active duty shall count all previous commissioned service, active or inactive, for all pay purposes.

Numerous officers were advanced in pay last July 1 on the basis of all previous commissioned service, but following the ruling of the Comptroller General, finance officers were instructed to collect all over-payments on base pay.

Officers will be scheduled to go to the House, where it was expected that Rep. Sparkman of Alabama would add a measure permitting officers to count prior enlisted services for longevity purposes. This measure will be introduced in the House by Rep. John H. Bankhead, of Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the War Department, and should benefit many officer candidate graduates as well as non-commissioned officers who have recently been and will be appointed commissioned officers in the Army of the United States.

The Pay Readjustment Act of 1942 provided for an increase of base pay for second lieutenants and permitted officers to count all previous enlisted service as active or inactive, for purposes of longevity pay. It also provided for increases in rental allowances and subsistence.

The authors of the bill stated, following the ruling of the Comptroller General, that it is intended that all commissioned service be counted for purposes of longevity and pay periods. The War Department then recommended that officers be allowed to count enlisted service for longevity purposes.

Over the radio on that morning of October 1, he heard the news that the Japanese had attacked his land. Early on the morning of December 8, George Swierczewski enlisted in the Army of the United States and became Private Swierczewski.

The young Swierczewski is an OCS in the 1st Student Training Regiment which is commanded by Colonel Thomas R. Gibson. "I'm proud to fight," he says with a quiet smile, "back in Poland there was a big round filled with words and letters and gumb and funny little postages. Maybe some day soon, I'll go back and throw my GI M-1 on top of the stack."

George talked about freedom, too, and democracy. In fact, he talked about the entire world. He'd draw him out about the counts and barons in the family. "But this freedom," he was saying with a great light in his eyes, when we edged out of the room.

A word and picture story of The Infantry School's officer candidates is featured in Lt. Col. F. Mitchell of the 117th Infantry, and written by Sgt. Walter Bernstein, former Infantry School public relations writer, holds the lead spot in this week's "Yank," the Army newspaper.

Lt. Mitchell, a recent graduate of the school, is shown in photos by Yank's staff photographer, Sgt. John Bushemi, depicting a candidate in the various steps of his commission.

Sgt. Bushemi was with the school's PRO staff for more than a year until his recent transfer as staff writer of the Yank, and his article on the course is authoritative and informative. It goes into detail on the experiences of an officer candidate through his three-month training period.

New Record is Set By Machinegun Crew

Academic Reg't. Men Put Up Heavy Weapon in 9 Seconds

An all-time Ft. Benning record, and what is believed to be an all-time United States Army record, was set this week with the heavy machine gun, when a lightning-like crew from Co. C of the Academic Regiment put its gun into action nine and one-fifth seconds with all points correct.

The crew was composed of Pts. Jim Pulley, number one gunner; Sgt. Charles Dinnenebber, number two, and Cpl. Ed Pagedas, number three.

The time was checked by Capt. John C. Clark and T. Sgt. Holtzclaw, who also verified that all points were correct.

An even more startling bit of news was disclosed when T. Sgt. Holtzclaw revealed that the record, though new, had been set in a record time, and the record was in action eight and one-fifth seconds and taken it out of action in six and four-fifths seconds. At any time the crew is expected to put the gun into action again.

Sgt. Dinnenebber is an ex-truck driver from Cleveland, Ohio, and is nationally known for having played for the Ohio All-Stars which toured the entire country.

Cpl. Pagedas is a carpenter from Clarkesville, Ga., where he has his own shop and was a "mighty good carpenter," as he'll proudly inform you.

Tigers Instruct Enlisted Men by Novel Method

Call It 'County Fair' System

The "County Fair" method of instructing enlisted men of the 10th Armored "Tiger" Division was inaugurated Friday in a series of four sections set up in various areas of the Division.

The 54th Infantry, one of the quarters, set up its section on Bovington Avenue, opposite the Motor Park, where enlisted men of the Division are scheduled to pass for this phase of the "Fair."

Under plans set up, the "Fair" is a test at what each individual knows as well as an instrument of instruction in the subjects with which he is not familiar.

In the event the enlisted man, on passing a table, is unable to answer the series of questions, he is required to stand and until he learns the answer. Then he will be permitted to pass along to the next table. Answers to the questions are to be learned, it is hoped, from soldiers who follow along the line.

The 54th phase of the "Fair" is in charge of Major Nelson A. Butler, Executive Officer, and Lieutenant A. P. Breaux, assistant S-3.

The Regiment's subjects and those in charge are:

Commands and Signals—Lts.

Waddell, L. Johnson and Sergt.

Quinn, Walny, Capone, Seigel and Gibson.

Grenades—Lt. Murray and Sgt. Zakiawski.

60 MM Mortar—Lt. Hankins

and Sergt. Smith, 3rd A. R.; Fliss and Kranic, 11th A. R., and Sgts.

Vanpelt, Carper, Rankin, Harak and Jordan and Private Allen.

Cars of Cleaning and Equipment—Lt. Beauford and Sgts. Prine and Pultz.

Interior Guard Duty—Lt. Crosson and Sergt. Stephano, Rambo and Bruhn.

Defense vs. Air and Mechanical Attack—Lt. Finley and Sgts. Qualls and Colvin.

Pitching of Shelter Tents and Display of Equipment—Lt. Gorham and Sgt. Lang.

Manual of Arms—Lt. Dowd and Sgts. Everett and Carlson.

Handling of Recruits—Lt. Yantis and Sgt. Phillips.

Schilling Presents March To the Infantry School

May Be Adopted As Official Infantry Song

Lt. Falco M. Schilling, 24th Co., 4th Battalion of the 1st Student Training Regiment which is commanded by Col. Thomas P. G. Dowling, has recommended "Call The Infantry" to The Infantry School, Ft. Benning and The Commandant, Major General Leaven C. Allen. If approved by the Chief of the Radio Branch, Bureau of Public Relations and the War Department, it will become an official army song for the Infantry and The Infantry School, Fort Benning.

A copy of the words and music "Call The Infantry" was turned over to the United States Army Band by Brig. Gen. George L. Scherzer, Chief of Staff, G-3 of the Army Ground Forces, with the request that it be used on one of the next round-the-globe radio concerts played every Saturday at 11:30 a.m. This musical organization, under the direction of Captain Thomas F. Darcy, Jr., became world known through its half hour program of march and band music racism from the Bass Auditorium to all corners of the globe by short-wave every Sunday.

WITNESSES ANOTHER SONG

Eng. Gen. Bellows was presented with the original copy of the words to another one of Lt. Schilling's compositions, "SONG OF THE SERVICE". The music for this number has recently been completed and the original words will also be used.

The dedication still reads:

"TO LT. COL. A. R. BOLLING, HQ CO, 117TH INF.", at Fort Benning.

Warren Officer Albert Andrew, director and bandleader of the 25th Infantry Band is working on the arrangement of

"CALL THE INFANTRY" for one of the next "Listen, It's Fort Benning" programs.

The Breakers

117th Infantry

The 1st Br. Hq. Co., 117th Infantry shined again.

Coming to Fort Benning with the determination to make good, Hq. Co. has done so in every endeavor. Setting a record in the building of the foot bridge at Englewood Landing.

The first time we constructed the bridge was in record time of three minutes, typical of a thirteen year record.

This time our determination and cooperation was accomplished on September 18, 1942.

On October 14, we were called on to put on the demonstration again before several thousand officers and men. This time all the boys were determined to beat their own records and to do a thirteen year record, which we did in the record time of 7 1/2 minutes.

Thus we were working so hard to beat our first record, one of our boys who seemed so anxious to get finished, went to the camp, announced on his return to the company area that his wife, Carolyn, had a seven pound boy, thus solving the mystery of his desire to get finished early. May be that's why we picked up the minute to beat our record.

Congratulations to Lt. George Parsons, on the birth of his son, Pvt. Parsons has gone to visit his wife and son who live in New York City.

23-Year Odyssey Ends In Return to Oglethorpe

Carley Goes Home As First Lieut.

You might say that First Sgt. Amos Carley of Augusta, Ga., has been traveling in a huge circle for the past 23 years. Sgt. Carley has accomplished something.

Sgt. Carley began his military career at Fort Benning, Ga., as a private in 1919. Since then he has traveled thousands of miles to many odd corners of this world to be scheduled to return to Fort Oglethorpe the latter part of November. However, on his homecoming he will carry with him the commission of 1st lieutenant in the Army of the United States.

At present a member of the 6th Company of the crack Third Student Training Regiment under the command of Col. R. H. Lord in the Infantry Officers' School here at Fort Benning, he will receive his commission November 12.

After enlisting in 1919, Sgt. Carley was sent immediately to Vicksburg, Miss., where he guarded vital railroad supplies. From Russia he went to the Philippine Islands for 32 months, returning to the United States in 1922.

He then joined the 22nd Infantry at Fort McPherson, Ga., and was with that organization for seven years prior to joining the Infantry School at Fort Benning. In 1929 he was on his way to China and remained until 1931. In 1934 he joined the Third Student Training Regiment and is now 1st Sgt. in the 6th Company of that organization.

Upon receiving his commission he will attend the Atlanta Police School at Fort Oglethorpe after which he expects to start the second leg of his world touring circle.
